

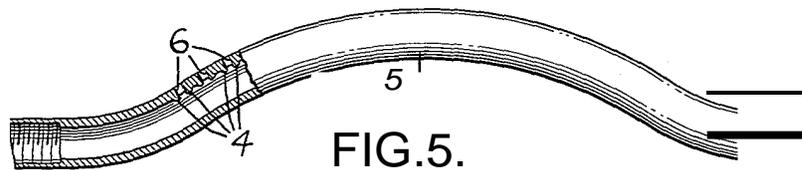

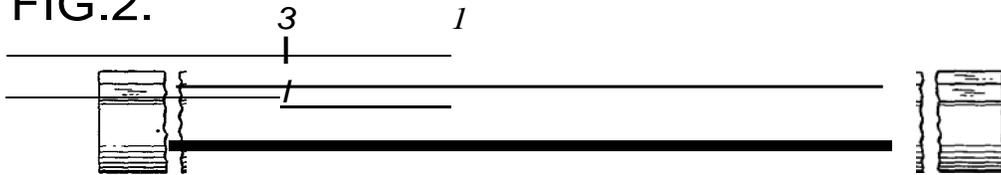

FIG.2.

Not only that, but we have resources close to the project that released some photos exclusively to Thermal Spray Depot. We have agreed not to release the identity of this person who has had first hand experience in using this device first hand. He tested it!

This device was in the possession of this person for testing, there were not any non-disclosure agreements signed between Metco and the person in possession of the device. I have full permission from him (or her) to publish these pictures. They understand the legal arm of Metco is powerful and much though was given in releasing these photos.